These were spot welded on the radiator support on cars that came with a fan shroud. often when you replace the core support These are missing .Now the lower shroud does not have to flap in the wind. These are made just like the originals. I have added holes in them so you can fasten them to the core support. You could use the holes for bolts or weld from the center of the hole to the edge and it will look like a factory spot. weld. these are the same thickness as the original. Also included is the directions from the factory line manual on how it all goes together. These are the details that separate the great cars for the ok cars.	CUITINL10390	25.60
